

Dancing with the Undertaker

Explore the actions of a flawed character confronting a love/hate relationship with his mother. Experience the conflict of her death, his fathers remarriage and then his fathers death with his loss of inheritance. Future plans change dramatically when he meets a real father figure. When this mentor dies, his grip on reality is a struggle until rage drives his first murder. Rationalizing this act as being positive, he now has a hobby with benefits. His mind quickly elevates the murders to the level of art. Dark humor allows the reader to experience a mind on the edge...a character you can both love and hate. Shadows from his youth provide insight into a personality capable of viewing the world on multiple levels...some real and some fantasy. It appears the person he loves and trusts most is his brother, a homicide detective. Their lives weave together in a complex dance between reality and insanity, with the balance broken by the love of a woman. The result is one individual in the grips of a split personality driven by the desire to kill his past. Reality is definitely a state of mind, not a place.
